MTE Heart Team: Walking Together

It is a great pleasure for us to announce the 9th Interventional Symposium on High Risk and Innovative Cardiac Interventions “Meet the Experts – MTE 2016” that will be held at Università della Svizzera Italiana in Lugano from 21st to 23rd June 2016.

As you all know, our meeting will be offering the ideal conditions for learning new techniques and improving one’s specific knowledge on cardiac interventions, a field that is dramatically evolving.

Limits once considered impossible to go beyond have now become part of our daily activity and our mind is projected to new exciting, challenging adventures.

An impressive and unexpected technological development goes along with a substantial change in our philosophy. What used to be a “one man show” is now managed with a “team approach”, i.e. a synergy of persons with different skills working together for one sole goal. Multimodality, multidisciplinary and, why not...multi-mentality are just a few of the new terms coined for expressing the modern, patient-oriented, “heart team” approach.

High risk and innovative cardiac interventions are discussed and performed by a highly competent and experienced heart team.

An ambitious still attractive target for our MTE 2016.

Let’s walk, think and create together!

Learning objectives

At MTE the participant will learn how to:

- Analyse and make the right decisions in critical coronary valve and structural heart interventions
- Manage difficult cardiac interventions
- Manage complications during cardiac interventions

Targeted audience

- Trained Cardiologists
- Cardiologists in training
- Nurses and technicians
- Cardiac Surgeon

LSCM 2016

Meet The Expert 2016 will follow Lugano Stem Cell Meeting.

The LSCM topics on Tuesday morning June 21st will be on the recent development in the field of cardiac regeneration and heart cell therapy. This will be followed by a common LSCM/MTE session from 13:30 p.m. to 14:15 p.m.
