

Trauma symposium and answers to the questions you are asking

Tuesday - Thursday 4 - 6 February 2014

Venue: Royal Society Of Medicine, 1 Wimpole Street, LONDON, W1G 0AE

This three-day symposium, organised by the Orthopaedic Section of the RSM will provide an update on orthopaedic trauma for surgeons involved in the day to day care of trauma patients. Each of the lecturers is a specialist in their area and the ethos of the course is to give presentations based around clinical problems and not a distillate of the textbooks. Each section will be case based discussions with tips and tricks to optimise surgical outcome and to avoid pitfalls.

Day 1 - Lower limb topics with an emphasis on periprosthetic fractures, limb reconstruction and foot and ankle problems.

Day 2 - Upper limb problems, cervical and lumbar spinal cases and paediatrics with featuring.

Day 3 - Debates covering controversies in trauma, covering anatomical regions, education and major trauma centres.

Aims and objectives

This three-day symposium, organised by the Orthopaedic Section of the RSM will provide an update on orthopaedic trauma for surgeons involved in the day to day care of trauma patients. With an internationally renowned faculty, this conference will also highlight important topics for the FRCS (Tr & Orth) exams and will also be of benefit to allied professionals wanting to get involved in trauma. It would also focus on important topics for consultant level exit exams in orthopaedics for those wishing to brush up on their knowledge of orthopaedic trauma.

“Answers to the questions you are asking”:

The third day of the symposium “Answers to the questions you are asking” will be bringing in world renowned orthopaedic specialists who will be discussing major issues in trauma through debate and keynote lectures, bringing together vast knowledge and experience to help pass this on to the next generation of orthopaedic surgeons.
