Academic Medical Center, University of Amsterdam

Lecture Hall 5 / Accreditation: 12 hrs.

Dear colleagues,

It is with great pleasure that I want to invite you the 17th edition of our annual EUS-course, which is traditionally held in the first week of June since 1998. The Academic Medical Center has been among the first hospitals in the world to implement Endosonography in clinical practice. At that time Olympus was the only manufacturer and radial echoendoscopes were the only available instruments. Endosonography has gone through a huge development since its introduction and is now an indispensable technique in the evaluation and treatment of patients with gastrointestinal disease. EUS-guided Fine Needle Aspiration biopsy has become more and more important with the implementation of neo-adjuvant therapy for many different tumors. At the same time, interventional EUS is gaining more ground in the treatment of patients with pancreatic fluid collections and difficult access to the pancreato-biliary system. Endosonography Live in Amsterdam provides an annual state-of-the-art update of indications and technique and serves as an ideal opportunity to benchmark your knowledge with world-experts. For the 2014 edition we have invited Robert Hawes from Orlando, USA, Thomas Rösch from Hamburg, Germany, Bertrand Napoleon from Lyon, France, Takao Itoi from Tokyo, Japan, Frank Vleggaar from Utrecht, The Netherlands, Andrada Seicean from Cluj-Napoca, Romania and Alberto Larghi from Rome, Italy. We feel that with this faculty we will be able to offer you a highly interactive and highly educational programme on 5 & 6 June 2014 in the Academic Medical Center in Amsterdam.

Looking forward to seeing you in Amsterdam,

Paul Fockens

on behalf of the organizing committee
